HISTORY OF HOUSE COMMITTEES CONSIDERING VETERANS' LEGISLATION

Compiled by Library of Congress, Legislative Reference Service American Law Division, under date of March 4, 1964, revised to June 8, 1982, by Library of Congress, Congressional Research Service, Government Division.

INTRODUCTION

Legislation relating to veterans has played an important role in the activity of every Congress since the founding of our Nation. The early practice of the House of Representatives was to establish a select committee on every bill. Thus, whatever the subject matter might be, the Congress retained control of its committees by giving them specific instructions as to their authority and duties.

The First Congress relied mainly on Committees of the Whole House for developing the general principles of legislation and upon numerous select committees to perfect the details of bills.[1]

The first standing Committee of the House which considered measures relating to pensions was the Committee on Claims, which was created on November 13, 1794. The Committee on Claims was vested with jurisdiction related to revolutionary and land claims, and all sorts of pensions.[2] That Committee apparently handled all veterans' legislation until it was divided on December 22, 1813, with the creation of the Committee on Pensions and Revolutionary Claims. From that date, until the Committee on Veterans' Affairs was created by the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 (Public Law 79–601),[3] veterans' measures were considered by various committees of the House of Representatives as the House saw fit to create, abolish or divide to fit problems and legislation at various periods of our history.

Following is a history of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs from its inception on January 1, 1947, until the present date, and the various committees created prior to that date which considered legislation now within the purview of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

I. HOUSE COMMITTEE ON VETERANS' AFFAIRS

Public Law 79–601 mandated the establishment of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs commencing with the 80th Congress.

Section 121(a)(18) of the act[4] amended rule X of the House of Representatives by creating the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs to consist of 27 members.

[4] 60 Stat. 623.

Section 121(b)(r) [5] amended rule XI of the House of Representatives, giving the committee the following jurisdiction:

1. Veterans' measures generally.
2. Pensions of all the wars of the United States, general and special.
3. Life insurance issued by the government on account of service in the Armed Forces.
4. Compensation, vocational rehabilitation, and education of veterans.
5. Veterans' hospitals, medical care, and treatment of veterans.
6. Soldiers' and Sailors' civil relief.
7. Readjustment of servicemen to civilian life.

These provisions became rule X, section 18, and rule XI, section 1(r), of the Rules and Manual, U.S. House of Representatives, 1947 (80th Cong.) (pp. 305 and 330). The provisions remained unchanged for the 81st and 82d Congresses, except in the 82d Congress the House passed House Resolution 60 [6] which reduced the membership of the Veterans' Affairs Committee to 23 members for the duration of the 82d Congress.

In the 83d Congress rule X, section 1(t),[7] provided that the Committee on Veterans' Affairs consist of 27 members. Rule IX, section 18,[8] changed the jurisdiction of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs to read as follows:

(a) Veterans' measures generally.
(b) Compensation, vocational rehabilitation, and education of veterans.
(c) Life Insurance issued by the government on account of service in the Armed Forces.
(d) Pensions of all the wars of the United States, general and special.
(e) Readjustment of servicemen to civil life.
(f) Soldiers' and sailors' civil relief.
(g) Veterans' hospitals, medical care, and treatment of veterans.

These provisions remained the same for the 84th and 85th Congresses. In the 86th Congress the provision of rule X relating to the Veterans' Affairs Committee as a standing committee became rule X, section 1(s),[9] with no change in the language. The provisions of rule XI relating to the jurisdiction of the Veterans' Affairs Committee became rule XI, section 19,[10] with no change in the language. No further changes have been made in these provisions for the 87th and 88th Congresses. In the 90th Congress, rule XI was extended by passage in the House, on October 20, 1967, of House Resolution 241, which transferred jurisdiction of legislation pertaining to national cemeteries from the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs to the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

While the provisions of rule X designating the composition of the committee remained unchanged until the commencement of the 94th Congress, the House was authorized, by resolution, to change the number of members serving on standing committees during a Congress to reconcile the party ratio in the House from the preceding Congress. Accordingly, between the 83d Congress and the 93d Congress the following resolutions were adopted altering the size of the Veterans' Affairs Committee: 83d Congress, 2d session, House Resolution 418, Jan. 25, 1954, 28 members; 91st Congress, 1st session, House Resolution 174, Jan. 29, 1969, 25 members; 92d Congress, 1st session, House Resolution 192, Feb. 4, 1971, 26 members; and 93d Congress, 1st session, House Resolution 158, Jan. 24, 1973. 26 members. Although the number of members appointed to the Committee varied between the 84th and the 90th Congresses, no resolutions were adopted which affected the composition of the committee during this period. The Committee Reform Amendments of 1974, House Resolution 988, eliminated the rule designating the composition of standing committees allowing the size of a committee to be established by the number of members appointed thereto.

II. COMMITTEE ON CLAIMS

The Committee on Claims was established on November 13, 1794, and it shares with Elections the distinction of being the oldest standing committee of the House.[11] Upon the establishment of the committee on November 13, 1794, it was given jurisdiction of all "matters or things touching claims and demands of the United States." [12]

In a note in Barclay's Digest and Standing Rules and Orders of the House of Representatives, 1860–61 (p. 176) is the language "that originally the Committee on Claims was charged with all revolutionary and land claims, and all sorts of pensions."

Since this committee's jurisdiction relating to veterans was taken from it and given to the Committee on Pensions and Revolutionary Claims in 1813, no further history of the Committee on Claims is given.

III. COMMITTEE ON PENSIONS AND REVOLUTIONARY CLAIMS

The Committee on Pensions and Revolutionary Claims was created on December 22, 1813. This committee was established by the adoption of a motion by Mr. Stevenson Archer, of Maryland.[13] It was created as a standing committee to consist of seven members, whose duties are made to correspond with this appellation.

Jurisdiction.—Rule 53 of the 18th Congress read as follows: [14]

> It shall be the duty of the said Committee on Pensions and Revolutionary Claims to take into consideration all such petitions, and matters, or things, touching military pensions, and, also claims and demands originating in the Revolutionary war, or arising therefrom, as shall be presented, or shall or may come in question, and be referred to them by the House; and to report their opinion thereupon together with such propositions for relief therein, as to them shall seem expedient.

The Committee was abolished by changing its name on December 13, 1825, to the Committee on Revolutionary Claims by a proposition submitted by Mr. Webster on the 12th of December, 1825.[15]

IV. COMMITTEE ON REVOLUTIONARY CLAIMS

This committee was established by the adoption on December 13, 1825, of a proposition submitted by Mr. Webster which changed the name of the Committee on Pensions and Revolutionary Claims to the Committee on Revolutionary Claims.[16]

Its jurisdiction in 1825 was as follows:[17]

> It shall be the duty of the Committee on Revolutionary Claims to take into consideration all such petitions and matters of things touching claims and demands originating in the Revolutionary War, or arising therefrom, as shall be presented or shall or may come in question, and be referred to them by the House; and report their opinion thereupon, together with such propositions for relief therein, as to them shall seem expedient.

The committee was abolished on December 2, 1873, on a motion by Mr. Frye to change the title of the committee to the Committee on War Claims.[18]

V. COMMITTEE ON REVOLUTIONARY PENSIONS (FIRST)

This committee was created by the adoption of a proposition submitted by Mr. Little on December 7, 1825.[19]

The committee was abolished on December 13, 1825, by changing its name to the Committee on Military Pensions by the adoption of a resolution by Mr. Webster submitted on December 12, 1825.[20]

VI. COMMITTEE ON MILITARY PENSIONS

This committee was established by the adoption of a proposition by Mr. Webster on December 13, 1825,[21] by abolishing and changing the name of the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions.

Its jurisdiction was as follows:[22]

> It shall be the duty of the Committee on Military Pensions to take into consideration all such matters respecting pensions for military services, and also, all such matters respecting invalid pensions, as shall be referred to them by the House.

The Committee was abolished by reviving the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions on January 10, 1831.[23]

VII. COMMITTEE ON REVOLUTIONARY PENSIONS (SECOND)

This committee was created by a resolution submitted by Mr. Trezvant on January 5, 1831, and adopted by the House on January 10, 1831.[24]

Jurisdiction of the committee in 1831 [25] was as follows:

> It shall be the duty of the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions to take into consideration all such matters respecting pensions for services in the Revolutionary War, other than invalid pensions, as shall be referred to them by the House.

Its jurisdiction was expanded by the 40th Congress to read:

To consider all matters relating to pensions of soldiers of the War of 1812, as shall be referred to them by the House.

If there be no objection, the Chair will make a statement to the House. Yesterday the House referred a joint resolution of the Legislature of Michigan, in reference to pensions to soldiers of the War of 1812, to the Committee on Invalid Pensions when appointed. The Chair had a conference with the chairman in the 39th Congress, and who will probably be the chairman of the committee in the 40th Congress, and he state that the committee was overworked and suggested that the subject should be referred to the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions. There being no objections, that reference was made.[26]

This committee was abolished by a revision of the rules on January 6, 1880.[27]

VIII. COMMITTEE ON INVALID PENSIONS

This committee was created on January 10, 1831, on a motion of Mr. James Trezvant, of Virginia.[28]

Jurisdiction of the committee was as follows:[29]

It shall be the duty of the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to take into consideration all such matters respecting invalid pensions, as shall be referred to them by the House.

In the revision of the rules of the House in 1880, section 25 of rule XI[30] reads as follows:

All proposed legislation shall be referred to the committee * * *.

25. To the pensions of the Civil War; to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

On December 6, 1888,[31] the resolutions distributing the President's message referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions so much as related to "pension laws and their modification and revision."

In general, this committee has reported all general pension legislation relating to veterans of the Civil War;[32] and it also reports private and special acts for the relief of soldiers of that war.[33]

But the actual appropriation of the money to meet the requirements of both general and special pension laws is within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Appropriations, which reports are in the general appropriation bill.[34]

Its jurisdiction was increased on January 3, 1939 (76th Cong., 1st sess.) to read as follows:

To the pensions of all the wars of the United States and peacetime service, other than the Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection, Boxer Rebellion, and World War; to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.[35]

The committee was abolished by the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946[36] and its functions combined with the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs.[37]

IX. COMMITTEE ON WAR CLAIMS

The Committee on War Claims was created on December 2, 1873, on a motion by Mr. Frye to change the title of the Committee on Revolutionary Claims to the Committee on War Claims.[38]

Its jurisdiction read as follows:

> It shall be the duty of the Committee on War Claims to take into consideration of all such petitions and matters or things touching claims growing out of any war in which the United States has been engaged.[39]

Although its considerations are mainly relating to claims which are not directly veterans' legislation it has considered legislation relating to claims for reimbursement for burial of dead bodies of officers, soldiers, and sailors,[40] and for reimbursement of officers and men of the Army for medical expense incurred during leave or furlough.[41]

The War Claims Committee was abolished by the Reorganization Act of 1946 [42] and combined with the House Committee on the Judiciary.[43]

X. COMMITTEE ON PENSIONS

The Committee on Pensions was established by the revision of the rules of the House in 1880 as a successor to the Committee on Revolutionary Pension.[44]

Its jurisdiction was as follows:

> All proposed legislation shall be referred to the Committee * * *.
> 26. To the pensions of all wars of the United States, other than the Civil War; to the Committee on Pensions.[45]

The Committee on Pensions reports private and special bills for the relief of soldiers of all wars except the Civil War [46] and also bills proposing general pension legislation for all wars except the Civil War.[47]

The actual appropriations authorized by laws reported from this committee are reported from the Committee on Appropriations in the general pension appropriation bill.[48]

The jurisdiction of the committee was amended on January 3, 1939, so as to more clearly define its jurisdiction,[49] to read as follows:

All proposed legislation shall be referred to the committees named * * *. 25. To the pensions of the Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection, and the Boxer Rebellion; to the Committee on Pensions.

> All proposed legislation shall be referred to the committees named * * *.
> 25. To the pensions of the Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection, and the Boxer Rebellion; to the Committee on Pensions.

Change in size of the Pensions Committee:

In 1880, date of its establishment, 11 members.[50]
In 1885, 13 members.[51]
In 1905, 14 members.[52]
In 1907, 15 members.[53]
In 1927, 21 members.[54]

The Committee on Pensions was abolished and combined with the Committee on Veterans' Affairs by the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946.[55]

XI. COMMITTEE ON WORLD WAR VETERANS' LEGISLATION

The Committee on World War Veterans' Legislation was established on January 18, 1924,[56] by the adoption of House Resolution 146.

Its original jurisdiction read as follows:[57]

> 51. (c) To war-risk insurance of soldiers, sailors, and marines and other persons in the military and naval service of the United States during or growing out of the World War, the U.S. Veterans' Bureau, the compensations and allowances of such persons and their beneficiaries, and all legislation, affecting them other than civil service, public lands, adjusted compensation, pensions and private claims; to the Committee on World War Veterans' Legislation.

The jurisdiction of the committee was enlarged on January 3, 1939.[58] Following this amendment the language of its jurisdiction read as follows:[59]

> To war-risk insurance of soldiers, sailors, and marines, and other persons in the military and naval service of the United States during or growing out of the World War the U.S. Veterans' Bureau, the compensation allowances, and pensions of such persons and their beneficiaries, and all legislation affecting them other than civil service, public lands, adjusted compensation, and private claims to the Committee on World War Veterans' Legislation.

The Committee was abolished by the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946[60] and combined with the Committee on Veterans' Affairs created by that act.[61]

The Committee Reform Amendments of 1974 (H. Res. 988), which was adopted by the House of Representatives on October 8, 1974, made no change in the jurisdiction of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.
